Thank you to the parents that were able to donate and another HUGE thank you to those that helped out with the Valentine's Day party. The students seemed very happy and loved being able to both give and get valentines!

Testing is full effect and we are busy, busy, busy. I'm sure we are all excited for this break because the business will continue right when we get back.

Great news! I found out today that our class project for 3 Kindle Fires on DonorsChoose.org was funded! We look forward to using them in the classroom during our math and reading workshops. Thank you to Hope Gawlick, Sue Gawlick, and the anonymous donor! Woo Hoo!

When we get back from break, we will be learning about weather (including clouds and disastrous storms). It is so exciting to see how the students begin to observe the weather around them, especially the clouds, during this unit.

I hope you all enjoy the break! Looking forward to seeing you soon!
